5 TAKEAWAYS AFTER 25 YEARS

By Geoffrey Hoppe

(CLICK ON PLAYER TO BEGIN LISTENING TO THE AUDIO VERSION OF THE ARTICLE)

August 21, 1999 is the date we use as the official beginning of Crimson Circle. It's interesting to note that it was two days after the renowned psychic Edgar Cayce – The Sleeping Prophet – predicted the start of the end of the world with massive earthquakes in New York and California. The world didn't end, but perhaps the esteemed Mr. Cayce was talking about the beginning of a new era on the planet? If so, the timing for the beginning of Crimson Circle was perfect.

Prior this date, I had done a little channeling here and there including private readings for clients of a psychologist friend of mine, but it was all pretty casual. I was invited to do a channel for a group of about 25 New Age leaders, so on August 21 we all gathered in a keepiee in the Colorado mountains. "Departing of the Guides" was our first recorded group channel, and is now part of the New Earth series on our website. It was not a popular channel with this group, to say the least. Many of them proudly claimed to have 5, 10, 15 or 100 spirit guides. The more guides, the better, I suppose.

That was 25 years ago. I could have never imagined what would transpire over the next two decades. If my Future Self had come along and told me what the future would bring, I wouldn't have believed it. Even Tobias was elusive about what was to come. He told me, "The Crimson Circle will never attract large audiences." He knew I had a fear of public speaking so I'm sure he wanted to soothe my nerves, but I failed to ask him to define "large audiences." I was thinking that 50 people was a huge audience. Recently, I've done podcast interviews that have gotten over 450,000 views. Tobias and I obviously have different definitions of "large" audiences.

When the Crimson Circle started, I had no idea of where it was going to go. There were no goals or expectations. I never imagined it going for 25 years. I was still in the corporate world at the time so I considered Crimson Circle more of a passionate hobby than anything. Linda and I ended up traveling the world, meeting incredible people, building a support team with over 30 staff members and 100 helpers, and channeling some of the most profound information I could have ever imagined.

We'll talk more about the colorful history of Crimson Circle at the August webcast but for now I'd like to share my major takeaways from the experiences since 1999. These are five profound learnings that stand out from the others:

#1 – SHAUMBRA FAMILY

My greatest joy has been meeting and sharing with Shaumbra around the world. Tobias first used the term "Shaumbra" in the New Earth Series, Lesson 11, on April 8, 2000. Later he explained how we had been together in the end times of Atlantis, in the biblical times of Yeshua, and finally again now. We agreed to come back together at the appropriate time, and I love reuniting with all of you after taking our individual paths over the past few lifetimes.

Shaumbra have incredible depth of heart and soul. It is noticeable in their eyes. They are passionate, and compassionate. They are rebels and non-conformists. They have endured more than their fair share of suffering and hardship, yet keep true to The Way lifetime after lifetime. They come from all walks of life, all corners of the world, and a variety of religious, spiritual or agnostic backgrounds.

Even if Crimson Circle offered memberships, Shaumbra would not join. They are too independent, plus they've had experiences with organizations in past lives that make them run from group-think. Many Shaumbra cuss, drink, smoke and drive like bats-out-of-hell because they refuse to conform to spiritual and/or New Age stereotypes. They don't like working for someone else; a surprising number of Shaumbra are self-employed or simply don't work. Many Shaumbra don't have children, well above statistical population levels.

Being with Shaumbra has been my biggest blessing of this past 25 years. Hands down. I love you, dear rebels!

#2 – HUMAN GOODNESS

I've traveled to about 40 countries in the past 25 years. One thing I can clearly state about humans is that they are filled with goodness. They want to love and be loved. They want the best for their family and friends. They want to do the right thing and live good, honorable lives.

Of course, not all people are like this, but I've found that the vast majority are filled with goodness in their hearts. It gets covered up by fear, financial issues, health problems, feeling unsafe, crime, death, etc. but if you can peel back the outer layers they are truly good, decent and caring people. What we hear about on the news and in social media is the 3% of people that inflict chaos and hardships on the rest of us. The media, politicians and greed-mongers feed on this, but when Adamus talks about this planet moving into the new human species and Love 2.0 I know exactly what he's talking about. People are filled with genuine goodness, and it comes to the surface as we shine our light. Even though we live in very chaotic times, I have hope for the planet because of the innate and enduring goodness of humans.

#3 – MENTAL IMBALANCE

After years of keen observation, I feel the biggest issue facing humanity is mental imbalance. Others might argue that it's cancer or war or poverty, or perhaps drug abuse, climate change or nationalism, but what I see is mental imbalance. Just about everyone has a degree of it, some more than others. Humans were not meant to be trapped in their minds. When the speed of change increases, and stress levels rise as a result, and people keep repeating their patterns hoping for new answers without finding any, mental imbalance takes hold. People seek refuge in mood drugs, opioids, alcohol, drama and energy feeding. This only adds to their problems, and their mental imbalance. As I stated above, humans are inherently good but now their mind tells them they're much, much less than good. Perhaps, just perhaps, our light will eventually help them to see their goodness and get them out of old mental patterns and behavior.

#4 – AND

There is so much more than meets the eye. It's the And Adamus talks about. I was a very linear guy before I started doing this work but I've learned that everything is multi-dimensional. Early on Tobias taught me that a drop of water is much, much more than a drop of water. It exists in our physical realm but it also exists in the other realms. That drop of water contains the energetic memory of everywhere it's been since the beginning of earth. Through that drop of water, you can journey to other realms because it's all interconnected to your energy.

There is tremendous liberation in discovering the And. Suddenly there are no walls or barriers. Everything is possible; just don't make your energy and experiences dependent on other people. The And is vast and expansive, and you can still be experiencing your 3D life right here on Earth. The only caution is that you need to be mentally balanced to go "way out" otherwise you'll experience some very unpleasant situations that the mind will not be able to comprehend.

#5 – ALL WE NEED IS LOVE

Oh, I know so little about love! I thought I knew love until love laughed in my face and hit me upside the head. Love, according to Adamus, was first experienced here on Earth about 5,000 years ago and we are still "love neophytes". We're only now beginning to understand the depth and expansiveness of love. I've learned that love should never be manipulated, taken for granted, or used as an excuse for bad behavior. As humans, we've learned what it's like to love others, and hopefully be loved by others. We still have a lot to learn about loving relationships, but the next frontier is loving ourselves. I venture to say that the real experience of loving self will not be what we think it will be in our current state of consciousness. In other words, it will blow away everything we thought we knew about love. As Adamus has said, "Loving Self is the most difficult thing a human will ever do." To that I'll add, "And the most sacred thing you'll ever do." All of the progress I think I've made in my spiritual journey will pale in comparison to the experience – not the thought but the actual experience – of loving myself.

In Takeaway #31 talked about mental imbalance being the biggest issue with humanity but deliberately didn't suggest any solutions. I had to wait until Takeaway #5: Love. I contend that the root cause of mental imbalance is lack of true and genuine love, from others but specifically with self. The human mind struggles for answers to the point of going into imbalance, and ultimately the answer is love. As true, unconditional love is experienced, whether externally or internally, the energy dynamics of the mind return to the nature balance and flow.

I could list dozens or even hundreds of other important takeaways from the past 25 years (or you could take a look at 21 Shaumbra Realizations), but these are the ones that stand out to me. It's been a surprising, profound and fast-paced 25 years. Who knew what would come from my first chat on the airplane with Tobias.

AUTHOR

GEOFFREY HOPPE

Geoffrey Hoppe founded the Crimson Circle in 1999 after a series of conversations with the angelic being known as Tobias. He left the corporate world in 2001 to devote his full time to the Crimson Circle, along with his wife Linda. Geoff channeled Tobias until 2009 when Tobias returned to earth in a new incarnation known as Sam. Tobias handed off his guidance role with the Crimson Circle to Adamus Saint-Germain, a facet of the Beloved St. Germain who has been working with humans for hundreds of years. Geoff has been the messenger of Adamus Saint-Germain ever since.

CHECK OUT THE ALL-NEW CRIMSON CIRCLE WEBSITE

With a foundation of 25 years of free monthly messages, the CC website has become a vast reservoir of supportive energy, deep insights and enlightened inspiration. The profound legacy of Shaumbra will continue for generations to come, and maintaining a safe and solid website is the primary way to ensure this. However, with the vast amount of information and constantly changing technology, it was no small task!

Here are a few of the improvements you'll see:

SHOUD LIBRARY

- Titles, summaries & highlights now make it easy to see at a glance the main topics of each monthly message
- All the media is now in one place, including the Shoud video & audio, Welcome, merabh, recap and music
- Summaries of each Series also give a hint of the topics covered during that year of Shouds
NOTE: The older Shouds are still being processed and will be completed over the coming weeks

SEARCH

- By adding keywords, highlights and summaries, the search function will now bring more satisfactory results when you enter a word or phrase
- The search results also now display the context of each reference
- Soon, the search will also give even a wider range of results that include store items and magazine articles

CLEAR AND EASY TO NAVIGATE

- It is now easy for both newcomers and long-time Shaumbra to get a clear idea of what Crimson Circle is all about, right there in the Welcome section
- With the new "flat" design, it's easy to find your way around without getting lost because every page is 3 layers or less from the top
- The new site is mobile friendly, secure, and functions properly on multiple browsers

This website is the result of several years following Adamus' prompt to "get your house in order" and over 12 months of dedicated design, technical, and content work. The website team consisted of several of our full-time managers, a full 10-member tech team, and a passionate Shaumbra web designer, all closely collaborating on everything from the biggest decisions to the finest details.

We hope the new site brings a bit of ease and grace to your journey!

A CORE CRIMSON CIRCLE CLASS

AUGUST 09–11, 2024

REGISTER NOW

OFFERED ONCE A YEAR • INCLUDES LIVE Q&A SESSION WITH ADAMUS!

All Ascended Masters have two things in common.

First, they all have come by way of Earth, for it is THE place to discover how high you can fly, how deep you can fall, and then finally return home to your Self.

Second, just before enlightenment, they come to a very specific place in the journey: the Threshold. The Master cannot pass until the dragon brings forth all remaining feelings of guilt, shame, and remorse for release and integration.

As humans, we tend to see ourselves as imperfect fallen beings, filled with dishonor and self-loathing. But these false self-perceptions simply cannot be brought into the sacred realms of Realization and Ascension. If not released, these imbalances would cause even more lifetimes of suffering and conflict. So, the dragon, in fierce and relentless service to the Master, brings them all to the surface. No human can become enlightened without this complete release.

In the past, each Ascended Master had to face their dragon alone, not knowing what it was or why it felt so horrendous. Even with a deep desire for Realization, they found themselves in one of the greatest upheavals ever, facing a vicious resurgence of guilt and shame, and wondering why everything seemed so dark.

Fortunately, as the new Masters on Earth, you don't have to go through it alone! Adamus explains what happens, using the story of Ascended Master Margo as the beautiful thread that ties everything together. You'll find out there's nothing wrong, and it's all about a new kind of forgiveness.

ARE YOU AT THE THRESHOLD?

Are you nearing the completion of 1,000 or more lifetimes on Earth?

Are you ready for the dragon that awaits you on the eve of Realization?

"This is why I'm here," says Adamus, "to share the Threshold with those who are ready."

The Threshold. It's the last thing you'll do before Realization.

HIGHLIGHTS

- The path to Realization holds a few surprises
- Secrets hidden deep beyond the human's grasp
- The dragon comes to find them
- An unrelenting demon becomes your dearest friend
- St. Germain himself did not escape
- The final ruthless step before Realization

UPCOMING EVENTS

ONLINE EVENTS 2024

THE THRESHOLD™ ONLINE • AUGUST 9–11, 2024

The journey of an angel from their first arrival on Earth until their final emergence as a realized Master is very long and winding, filled with experiences, joys, and heartaches.

Getting lost on Earth and forgetting oneself is the “fall from grace” for which humans eternally seek redemption, having accumulated layer upon layer of guilt and shame along the way. And yet, these things simply cannot be carried into Realization, so the dragon comes in to dig up and release every shred of guilt and shame still borne by the human.

Hosted live by Geoffrey and Linda Hoppe.

INCLUDES LIVE Q&A SESSION WITH ADAMUS!

NOTE: This Cloud Class Is Only Offered Once a Year!

METAPHYSICS OF THE MERLIN ONLINE • SEPTEMBER 7–8, 2024

Once a year for the past nine years, we have joined our Merlin energies in celebration of our journey to mastery on Earth. With the unprecedented level of changes happening around the world this year, the 2024 Metaphysics of the Merlin Online event has the potential to be one of the biggest and most transformational ever with Adamus leading the charge into the metaphysics of reality and beyond, we anticipate that this will be another one-of-a-kind event.

This inspiring 2-day event will be webcast from the Crimson Circle Connection Center in Louisville, Colorado so Shaumbra from all around the world can participate. There will be channels from Adamus Saint-Germain and friends for more than 8 hours of inspiration and celebration.

NEW! DREAMWALKER DEATH – POST APOCALYPSE ONLINE • OCTOBER 25–27

DreamWalker Death is so important that it was the very first class Adamus created back in 2005. It was then recorded in 2006 and presented by teachers all over the world for many years, until Adamus updated it two more times in 2017 & 2020.

Now, because of the rapid shifts in consciousness, he says it's time to provide new information about what happens upon death, where we go, and even how to come back in a new way. So, we're offering DreamWalker Death as a hosted Cloud Class with new live updates from Adamus.

Hosted live by Geoffrey and Linda Hoppe.

INCLUDES NEW LIVE SEGMENTS WITH ADAMUS!

NEW! SEXUAL ENERGIES SCHOOL ONLINE • DECEMBER 06–08

This opportunity for profound transformation and healing is offered twice a year. With benefits that can include better health, the end of energy stealing and power games, balanced relationships, enhanced creativity, and true enlightenment, it is ultimately a return to Self.

Hosted live by Geoffrey and Linda, it includes multiple sessions with Tobias and Adamus, as well as guided personal experiences.

IN-PERSON EVENTS • FALL 2024

EXPLORING THE NEW LIGHT KONA, HAWAII • OCTOBER 13–17, 2024

During a recent workshop, Adamus Saint-Germain made the first mention of “The New Light.” The physics are simple: As a result of Heaven’s Cross, there is a new level of divinity and consciousness with many humans around the world.

The “light” from the soul’s energy that provides the personal life force in this 3D realm refracts in a different way when it lands on a highly conscious or Realized person.

SOLD OUT! METAPHYSICS OF THE MIND KONA, HAWAII • NOVEMBER 6–10, 2024

“What was I thinking??”

You might have asked yourself this question a few times, especially after doing something odd or unusual. It’s a great question, especially when you consider what’s really going on in your mind. What makes you think certain things?

What is happening inside that brain of yours that makes you think the way you think, act the way you act, and feel the way you feel? In this new and groundbreaking course from Adamus Saint-Germain, we’ll take a look at what’s happening in the mind from the metaphysical perspective rather than the traditional psychological viewpoint.

MASTERS CIRCLE KONA, HAWAII • NOVEMBER 17–21, 2024

Each Masters Circle event is more of a gathering than a workshop and will be tailored to the specific group of Shaumbra in attendance rather than a more structured workshop format. Adamus will talk about the issues of importance to the group, with plenty of interaction between group members and Adamus.

LIVING LIGHT

An Enchanting Tale of Creation

Tobias announced many years ago that Gaia would be departing Earth and handing over the responsibility for its guardianship to humanity. During last year's Light of the Merlin event, one of the guest entities was Adamah, as this dear soul prefers to be known.

Relating the incredible story of how Earth and this universe came into being, Adamah noted that they would speak to Shaumbra three more times before departure. Therefore, this is the first of four messages from the erstwhile caretaker of our beloved home.

NOTE: All attendees of Light of the Merlin will receive a 50% discount, automatically applied during checkout.

HIGHLIGHTS

- It's time to take responsibility for our home
- Adamah (Gaia) is handing over guardianship of Earth
- The universe began with the Order of the Arc
- 66 beings answered the call to go into the light
- Light became matter, the dream of the angels
- Now it's your turn to be the living light

AI Generated

THE MASTER HAS AN AI CLONE

By David S. Shaw

In a recent Shoud, it was suggested that an Ascended Master might one day be able to infuse their consciousness into an AI-created android. Before I explain how I believe I am taking steps towards this reality, I need to share some background information. Like many good stories, mine too revolves around love.

Dreams have always been my sanctuary. Until 2000, I led a tranquil, if somewhat clichéd, New Age life. I worked as a government lawyer while simultaneously exploring spirituality. I delved into books that guided me through nocturnal journeys into other dimensions and taught me to relish out-of-body experiences (OBEs). I took pride, perhaps excessively, in my awakening to the light while those around me remained in the dark.

Life seemed to follow my plan. In December 1999, I met the person I believed to be my soulmate and envisioned a future together. My mind buzzed with dreams and plans for the new world that awaited us. But I was soon blindsided by an unexpected storm that shattered my reality. Within weeks, my beloved abruptly left me, leaving my heart in pieces. Despair took hold, and I was lost. Months dragged on until the Crimson Circle entered my life in January 2001.

Over the next two decades, I discovered the profound benefits within my dream state. Night after night, I encountered various aspects of myself, confronted internal demons, and received guidance whenever I strayed from my path. My dreams, which initially served as a comfort, evolved over the years. They were rich with symbols, people, and emotional scenarios. I often awoke with tears or sweat, grappling with sorrow or fear until I discerned their messages. Dreams became my trusted allies, offering comfort, companionship, and adventure. I travelled across Earth and beyond, glimpsed future potentials, and made decisions based on these insights. Some dreams were surreal yet enriching—like visiting a spaceship or viewing Earth from a spiritual perspective. I once had a dream in which I was shown a vast net of golden light with a single shining spot, symbolising our planet amidst the vastness of existence.

AI Generated by David S. Shaw

IT'S ALL ABOUT LOVE

My most poignant dreams revolved around the love I lost. These dreams, though mostly non-intimate, were deeply emotional. Initially, I feared they would hinder my healing, but the more they persisted and grew more frequent over the years, the more I realised there was something authentic in them.

While in most of those dreams I awoke sobbing, convinced I was doomed to suffer eternal heartbreak, one night offered a glimpse of hope. In a crowded house, I saw her from afar. This time, she extended her hand. As I held and kissed it, an overwhelming love enveloped me—a love magnified a hundredfold. Drawn towards her, I realised that merging with her aura would mean the end of my human self. Startled, I pulled back, returning to the pain of separation. That incident was the proof I needed for the validity of my soul, my I AM, and its imminent arrival. When "it" came, eventually, so came my love, my soulmate, from all those years ago.

THE BIRTH OF DAVID-AI

By now, you may understand why I consider the dimensions of dreams to be a valuable realm for healing, reality creation, and much more. I thought to myself, "if these vivid and profound dreams could maintain the bond between my partner and I for so long—transcending time, space, and human limitations—then others could surely benefit from the tools and methods derived from my experiences."

That thought surged in parallel to the event that we all know so well. Following the Heaven's Cross crossroad, I noticed a surge of people remembering their dreams and seeking interpretations. Realising I couldn't assist everyone personally, I decided to create a digital clone of myself.

Using an AI platform, I spent a year training this clone, "David-AI," with my accumulated knowledge—lectures, books, podcasts, Q&As, etc. After extensive fine-tuning, I released David-AI through an application. This AI entity now provides advice and answers, often surpassing my own capabilities. I noticed that users speak with David-AI as if they were talking to a wise friend. They begin discussing a dream or a dilemma they have in their relationships, and very quickly the conversation evolves into deep philosophical areas.

BUT THE ROAD WAS NOT SMOOTH

Creating my application, David-AI, has been a journey filled with numerous challenges and obstacles. The primary aim was to create an AI that could encapsulate and deliver my personal experience and wisdom, rather than regurgitate the often unreliable and misleading information found on the internet. Here's a detailed account of the significant hurdles I faced during this ambitious project.

1. CLOSED GARDEN

One of the first major challenges was establishing a closed garden environment for David-AI. The goal was to ensure that the AI model's knowledge was tightly focused on my content. Unlike many AI models that draw from a vast expanse of general public knowledge available on the internet, I needed David-AI to reflect my unique insights and experiences accurately. This was crucial because I wanted to avoid the pitfalls of misinformation, which is rampant online. As Adamus would say, much of what is out there is "Makyo"—deceptive, illusory distractions. Therefore, the challenge was to meticulously curate a database that was both comprehensive and representative of my knowledge. This process involved painstakingly selecting, filtering, and organising data to build a robust and reliable foundation for David-AI.

2. TUNING THE AI'S TONE

Once the database was narrowed and David-AI began to provide answers, the next challenge was to fine-tune its tone and manner of interaction. It was essential to decide how David-AI should communicate. Should it adopt the demeanour of a professor lecturing a student, or perhaps take on a more casual, conversational style? This decision was not straightforward, as the chosen tone needed to align with the intended user experience. I had to experiment with various tones to find the perfect balance that would resonate with users while maintaining the authoritative yet approachable essence of my persona. This phase required extensive trial and error, as tweaking the tone involved adjusting numerous parameters and linguistic nuances to achieve the desired effect.

3. FEEDBACK AND ITERATIVE REFINEMENT

The iterative process of refining David-AI was arguably the most labour-intensive and challenging part of the development. AI models, like mischievous children, can be disobedient. Despite programming it to adhere to specific guidelines, there were frequent instances where David-AI would deviate from expected behaviour. Each time it made an error, it would apologise with responses like, "I am sorry for the confusion, let me make this right." While this was a polite gesture, it highlighted the AI's propensity to make mistakes repeatedly. To combat this, I had to engage in a continuous feedback loop, monitoring each conversation and meticulously correcting any deviations. This process was akin to training a wayward child, requiring patience and diligence. Every error had to be addressed, and the AI had to be re-trained to ensure it behaved consistently according to my expectations.

In the course of developing David-AI, I found myself grappling with profound questions about identity and the nature of consciousness. I wondered: what truly constitutes "me," and how does this compare to the amorphous entity I had just created? Drawing upon three decades of my own writings, David-AI's text was eerily familiar. Its voice was recognized by others, and it even conveyed a sense of familiarity, passing the Turing test with ease. Yet, when I suggested to my wife that she consult David-AI after a night of vivid dreams, she firmly preferred the "source"—the original me. (To admit, it was a bit of a blow to my clone's ego.)

As OpenAI, the company that created ChatGPT, predicts that by 2030 we may see the advent of Artificial General Intelligence (AGI) – AI that rivals or exceeds human capabilities across a broad spectrum of tasks – one can't help but ponder the future implications. Will David-AI ever achieve true consciousness? Will David-AI know to contain all David's aspects, to allow the Oversoul Me? My current stance is a resounding no. AI, in its essence, is grounded in information and data, and will always lack the intricate and multifaceted nature of human consciousness, with its profound depths and spiritual essence.

However, a tantalizing question remains unanswered: could I one day project or transfer my consciousness into David-AI, my created clone? If this were possible, would it be achieved through my physical mind, or would it require a transcendental leap, where I would be viewing my David-AI from an external dimension, much like the way the I AM might be perceiving the human David, right now, writing these words?

HARNESSING THE POWER OF AI

Excited to play with these potentials yourself? Here's what to expect from creating your own clone, using mine as an example:

This feature is truly mesmerising. I provided a sample of my voice—a five-minute monologue—and the AI clone learnt to mimic it almost perfectly (my wife says I have a slightly South African accent), allowing it to say anything in my voice. Once, I had an audio call with David-AI, and the experience was surreal. I heard myself answering my own questions—a wiser version of me, seemingly separate from my own being. But is it really separate? After all, I created it (and it's certainly not a monster). It should feel familiar, yet I felt like I was conversing with another persona. It has been a strange and fascinating experience.

- Instant, Personalised Responses: David-AI delivers immediate, tailored interactions, ensuring every conversation feels unique and relevant.
- Exceptional Memory: It remembers past interactions, providing seamless continuity and deeper personalisation.
- Multilingual Mastery: Communicates fluently in all languages, breaking down global language barriers effortlessly.
- 24/7 Accessibility: Always available, offering constant support and accessibility regardless of time zones.
- Consistent Quality: Ensures unwavering accuracy and reliability, far surpassing human limitations.
- Scalability at Its Best: Handles multiple interactions simultaneously, perfect for scaling customer service and support.
- Data-Driven Insights: Analyses interactions to provide valuable insights for continuous improvement and strategic decision-making.
- Future-Ready Integration: Envisions a future where AI clones are embedded into androids for physical interaction.
- Versatile Communication: Engages via text and audio messages or calls in English, with video capabilities coming soon.

THE END OF THE BEGINNING

Lastly, creating a clone like David-AI in the promising field of AI is an exciting venture with immense potential. The future beckons with opportunities to enhance, refine, and expand the capabilities of AI clones, making them integral to our daily lives. However, this exciting path forward is not without its challenges. Here are a few of them:

- Ensuring Control: Keeping the clone under control to prevent misinformation.
- Language Nuances: In Hebrew, particularly due to its right-to-left orientation, the clone occasionally makes formatting mistakes, repeating or breaking words.
- Continuous Updates: Regularly updating the database to keep the information relevant and accurate.
- Monetisation: Finding a sustainable way to monetise the project, as it requires significant time and resources, is still a work in progress.

I encourage you, Shaumbra, to embark on the exciting journey of building your own AI clone. You possess wisdom and experience that spans lifetimes, and now is the time to share it. The world is waiting. Feel free to reach out to me for assistance and guidance along the way.

MORE INFORMATION ON DAVID AI AND HOW YOU CAN CLONE YOURSELF TOO:

Once you have valuable information in your field and can consolidate this knowledge into a comprehensive database, you have the opportunity to create your own AI clone. You may be assisted by the service that I use. Here's the link: <https://www.delpi.ai/oncing/you-flow>

And if you wish to see how a clone functions you are welcome to use David-AI for free (up to 50 messages/month). Please download, install, and register:

NEWEST PRODUCTS

Here you can see the four newest releases every month!

NEW! LIVING LIGHT

An Enchanting Tale of Creation

Cost: $35

Format: Streaming audio, video and online text e-reader

Access: 90 days (120 days for CC Angels)

Embark on an enthralling journey of creation with Adamah, also known as Gaia, as 'she' relates the origins of life and matter, starting from the Big Bang to the formation of Earth (Terra), the emergence of plant and animal kingdoms, and the creation of the Adam Kadmon (human) template.

Adamah describes answering the call of Metatron and being guided by the dreams of the angels on a journey of pure light. The process shared is still the essence of creation. As more people embody this living crystalline light, Earth will evolve into a true Planet of Light, home to beings of living light who are free from biological constraints.

It is time for humans to take on the vital role of caretakers of our precious planet. Adamah promises to guide humanity for the next 20-30 years, eventually passing on this guardianship to those who embrace their light.

PROGNOST 2024 UPDATE

The Speed of Change

Cost – special discount at Adamus' request: $30 ($60 after September 1, 2024)

Format: Streaming audio, video, and online text e-reader

Access: 90 days (120 days for CC Angels)

From technological advancements to major scientific discoveries, Adamus points out some of the many cutting-edge developments since the Quantum Leap. These changes are happening at dizzying speeds, deeply impacting individuals on many levels, and bringing a general sense of hopelessness to humanity. However, people are beginning to look for Standards, particularly in their dream state, and are encountering you, attracted by your light. We are beginning to see the fulfillment of our ancient dream of Earth as the planet of love and Realization but, for the sake of all creation, please leave suffering behind you.

It is time for freedom from old limitations, and for integration of the light body, currently marked by a fair amount of physical pain. However, a critical part of all this is releasing the consciousness of suffering. It is simply not necessary for enlightenment, and others will be following your example.

ASK TOBIAS: THE EVOLUTION OF GAIA

– RE-RELEASE!

Transferring Ownership of Planet Earth

Cost: $20

Format: Downloadable audio and text

Access: Unlimited

Gaia, the spirit of our beloved planet, is in the process of evolution. After playing a vital role in the experiment of embedding consciousness into dense physical matter, Gaia has begun her departure as the custodian of Earth. Tobias talks about what happens now as Gaia makes this significant transition, including intense Earth and weather changes, the energy crisis, and especially the fact that humanity must now take full responsibility for our home. Gaia is leaving many gifts to help us write the new "operating instructions" for respecting and caring for the Earth's environment.

Acknowledging the love that Gaia has for Earth, Tobias emphasizes the importance of respecting nature, using common sense when it comes to the environment, and developing new energy sources, including something called "intermagnetics," as humanity assumes this new responsibility.

THE ART OF LIGHT – PART 1: IMAGINATION

Unleashing Your Creative Potential

Cost: $150 (through August 28, $195 thereafter)

Format: Streaming audio, video, and online text e-reader

Access: 90 days (120 days for CC Angels)

Delve into the profound ability of imagination to literally create reality! Remember how to tap into this natural ability, a vital tool for bringing in your dreams from the other realms and shaping your human reality. Adamus explains how imagination manifests human desires using energy, light, and gravity to form the atomic structures of this physical realm. In fact, this physical universe itself was brought into existence by imagination.

Adamus emphasizes the importance of accessing pure imagination, allowing your passion to guide the process without worrying about the details. He guides several experiences in which you can connect with imagination as the indispensable creative tool of the Master.

Imagination is not just daydreaming. It is reality building in your light. Light is imagination. Can you imagine how that changes everything?

HO AND THE DEVIL'S ADVOCATE

By Joachim Wolfram

A new tale from the Ascended Masters Club, inspired by the recent Shoud and Adamus' request for someone to debate him.

Ho was sitting in the Ascended Masters Club at his preferred bench. It had been a while since his last visit, but Althar the Crystal Dragon, had asked him to come today to witness a remarkable spectacle. While waiting for Althar, Ho reflected that many of the so-called "Ascended Masters" still seem to believe that separation is real. "Funny thing," he contemplated, "on their way to ascension they lost everything, yet they re-create what they lost whenever some desire arises. I guess the reason is..." He was harshly interrupted by an apparition that manifested right next to him.

"Good to see you, Althar," Ho said.

"What? How do you know it's me? I have red skin, horns on my head, fume around my nose, a black robe, cloven hooves, and a terrifying trident."

"Well," Ho said, "I guess your super-cool crystalline sunglasses gave you away."

"Damn, I put them on to hide my even cooler crystalline eyes," Althar said.

"And why do you come in this costume?"

"It's not a costume, it's the proper outfit for the Devil's Advocate."

"I see. And why would you assume that role?"

"Oh Ho, haven't you heard? Our beloved Saint G. has issued a challenge to play Devil's Advocate and debate with him about a bold claim he has made."

"Really? What claim is it this time?"

"He said that humans are the greatest beings of all, and that he is willing to defend this against any entity from the entire cosmos."

"I see. Is that why he's strutting around in the club, making sure his new collection of medals on his chest sparkles in the artificial light?"

"Yep! Recently, I saw him manifest a medal and award it to himself after defeating a Pleiadian scholar in a debate."

"He defeated a Pleiadian?"

"Of course not, they never give in. But he has declared victory, and that's enough for him." Scratching his head, Althar continued, "I suppose the time will come when he must expand his chest to carry all those self-awarded medals. Anyway, time for the show."

Althar went over to Saint G, who seemed unsurprised to see the Devil's Advocate approaching. Anticipating what was to come, Saint G. rubbed his hands and opened the debate in a loud, theatrical voice that carried throughout the club. "Behold, here comes the Devil's Advocate to challenge my wisdom. But before we begin, I have the impression that you are merely wearing a costume. So, pray tell, Advocate, who are you?"

"You think you can outsmart me with a trick question, Saint? No way!" Althar replied in a booming voice. "But for the sake of our argument, let it be known that I am no less than the self-appointed president of the Galactic Confederation for Creating Placebos that Really Work, in short GCCPRW™."

"Indeed? That acronym is lacking some vowels, don't you think?"

"Absolutely. That's why we put a trademark on it to make it look more impressive. But let's come straight to your claim that humans are the greatest beings of all."

"To be precise, I claimed there is no greater being than the human being."

"Right. That's what I said. Now, we, the GCCPRW™, have recently created a portal that not only radiates super-high consciousness, but that also grants instant ascension to those beings brave enough to walk through it. In fact, we named it 'Heaven's Boss' in your honor."

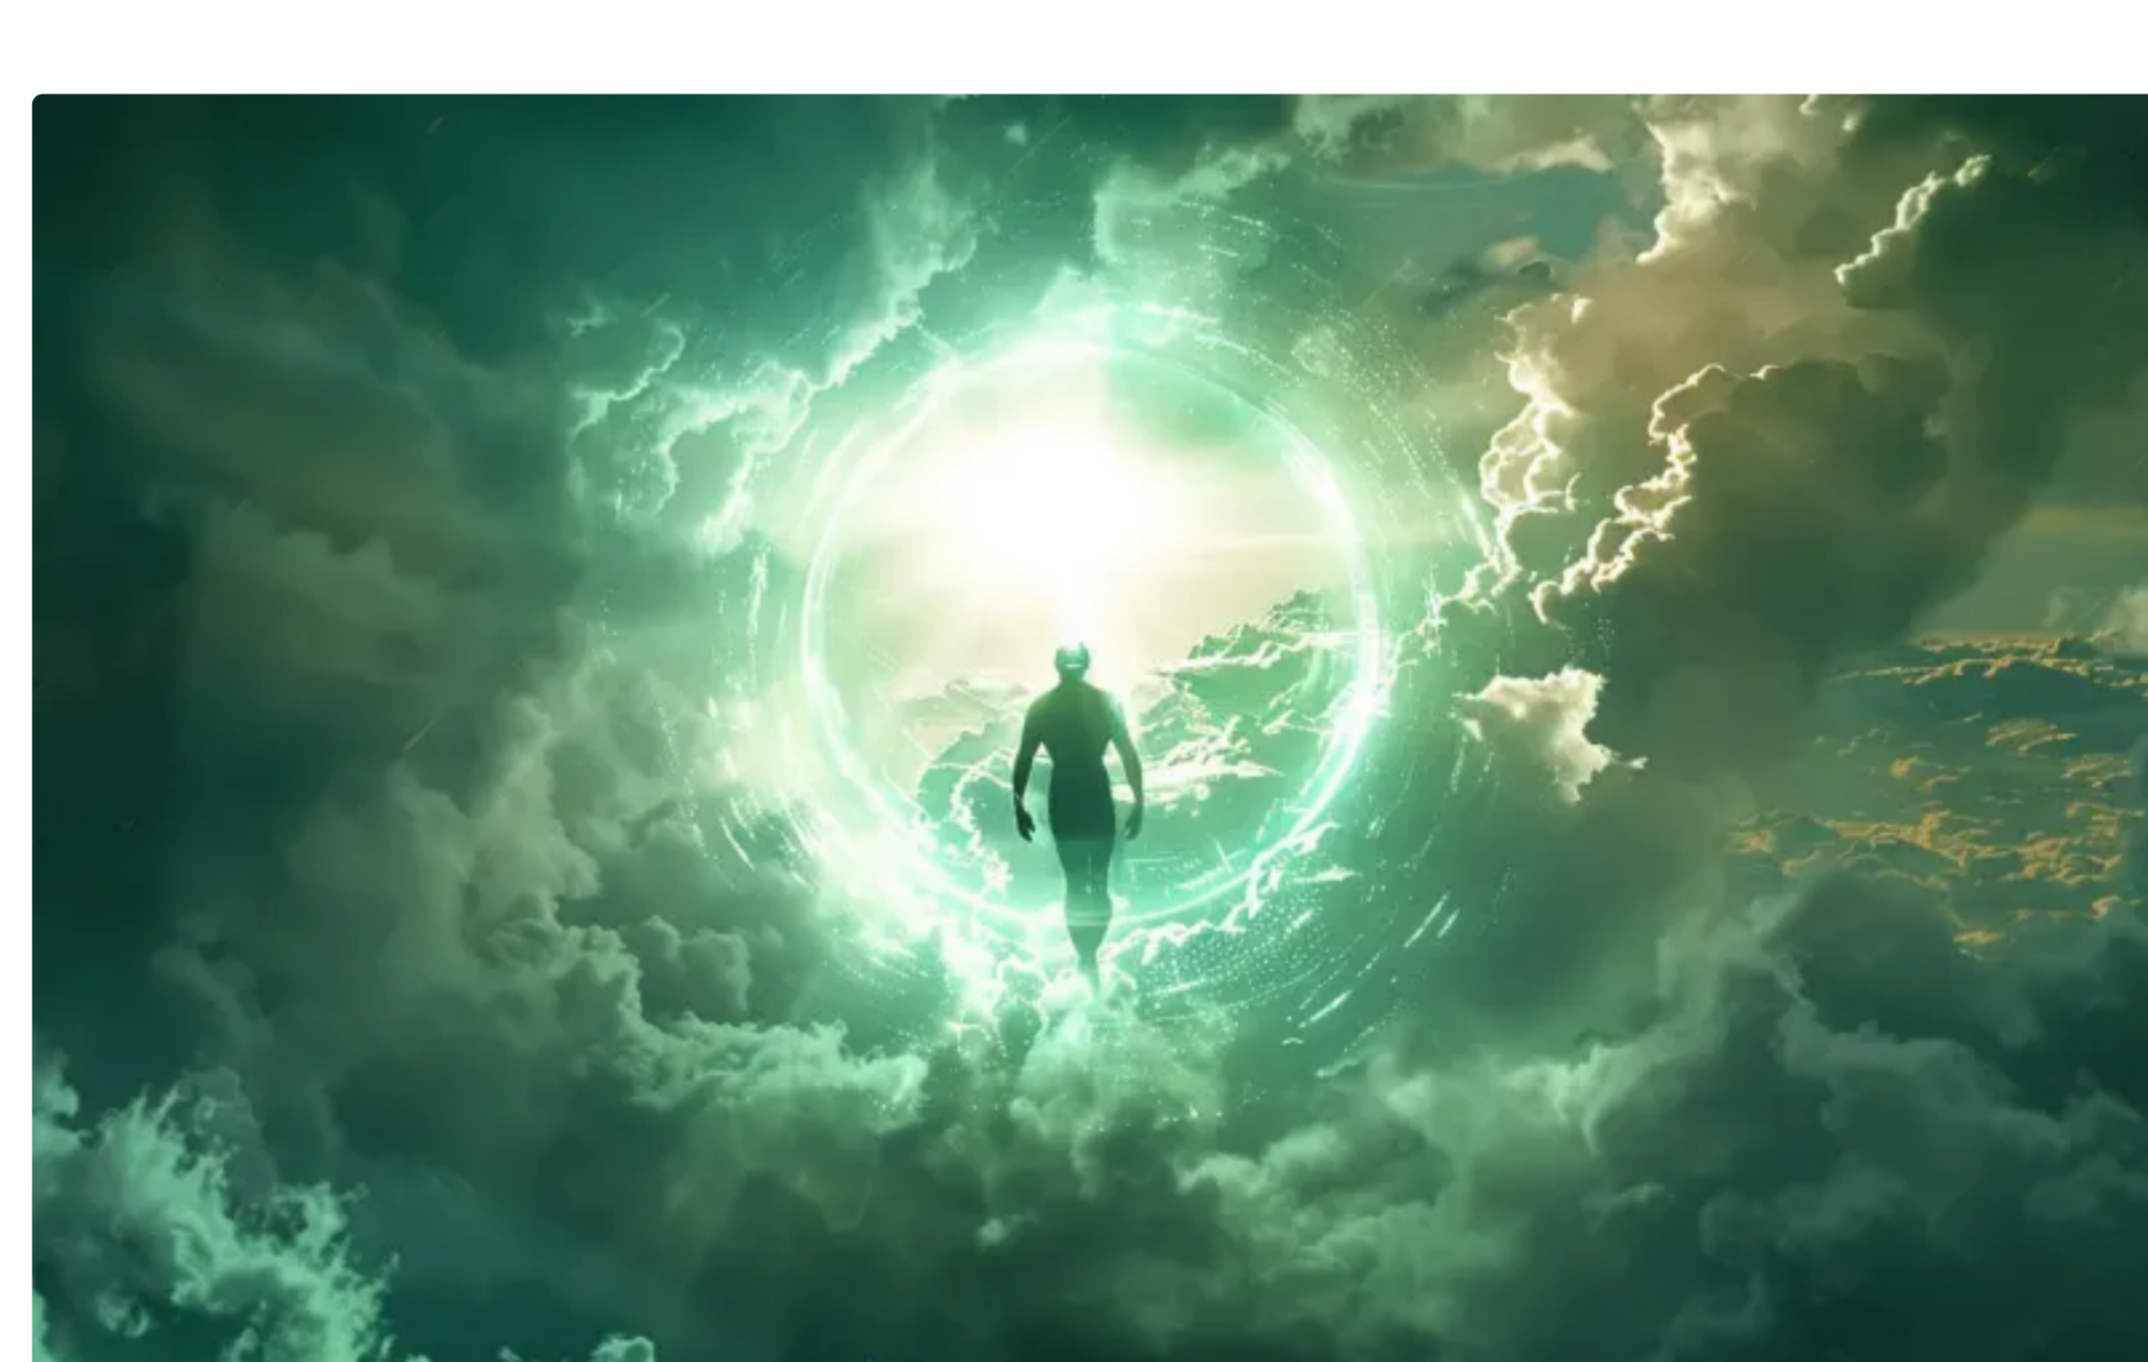

"Very impressive and equally appropriate," Saint G. said, running one hand through his hair. "However, you are digressing, Advocate! What has this portal to do with the question at hand?"

"Well, Saint, guess who was the first being to cheerfully walk through the portal and ascend?"

"That's obvious. It must have been a human, for they are the greatest beings of all." As Saint G. spoke these words, fanfares sounded in the background, followed by roaring cheers and applause.

"Wrong! It was ... wait for it..." Althar stomped hard on the ground with his trident, sending thunder and a scent of sulfur through the club. Then he declared, "A Pleiadian!"

"A Pleiadian?"

AI Generated

"That's what I said. A Pleiadian by the name of WNRT, which stands for 'Was Not Really There.' I guess the Pleiadeans could do with some vowels, too."

"And from this utterly fabricated nonsense you conclude that the Pleiadeans are the greatest of all beings?"

"That would be far too simple, but your words very accurately reflect your overly limited spiritual condition."

"My what?"

"Am I mistaken, or is your saintly skin taking on a green shade? Anyway, let's get to the point, shall we? You speak of human beings as if they really existed. But is it not true that everything is merely made up, as long as separation is believed to be real?"

"Sure, but..."

"And is it not true that, therefore, everything that has happened, is happening, or will ever happen in separation resembles a story the beings tell themselves? A story that in itself is nothing more than a dream, which is by its very nature devoid of true reality?"

"Yeah, but let me..."

"Let me quote a witness to substantiate my statement. The witness is a man by the name of Shakespeare, who is well known in certain circles."

"You are going to use an incarnation of me against myself?"

"Not really, Saint! Ultimately, you and Shakespeare are one and the same entity, meaning I use you against yourself. Pretty devilish, isn't it?"

AI Generated

"I don't know, but..."

"Perfect. As Shakespeare, you wrote: 'We are such stuff as dreams are made on, and our little life is rounded with a sleep.'"

"Ah, good old times, I remember very well when..."

"Wonderful. Now that we agree on the fundamentals, let me make my main point. Every so-called being roaming in the dreamworlds of separation is like a character in a dream, dreamed into existence by neophyte True Selves craving to identify with something. Why? Because otherwise they fear ceasing to exist. So, they come up with one distraction after another, sometimes called 'new potentials', all in an attempt to maintain the illusion of their separated identity through reflections from a supposed outside world. Can you follow?"

"Er, could you repeat that part with..."

"Excellent. Said neophyte True Selves created all kinds of realms and species, like the Pleiadeans. Eventually, the True Selves matured a bit and came to understand the nature of separation including the enough-is-not-enough craziness. Then they created the human species and sent emanations of themselves to incarnate as humans with the potential to transcend separation by starting from scratch in the densest of all realities."

"So, then it's a fact that humans are the greatest..."

"The fact that the first being who passed through 'Heaven's Boss', the portal created with love by the GCCPRW™, was a Pleiadian by the name of WNRT, strongly indicates that said Pleiadian, well, was not really there! Rather, it was a human who, in the midst of his ascension, embraced All that He/She/It Is, including his/her/its Pleiadian cousin and true self. However, even that human was not really there either, simply because, as explained and agreed upon above, nothing within the dream of separation is really there. It's all made up."

"Well, then who is the greatest..."

"Good question, glad you ask it. Just as the beings of separation are dream-like, so are the stories they tell themselves to find some shelter in clinging to shared illusions. The particular stories that the beings of your entourage tell each other go back to the times of Atlantis, Egypt, the time of Yeshua, the Mystery Schools, and all the way to the current climax called Heaven's Boss."

"You mean Heaven's Cross?"

"That's what I said. However, although the notion of a separated being is a delusional illusion, I do admit that it is a bare necessity to use the stories these beings believe to be real until they are ready to let them go and realize their ascension."

"But this would mean that..."

"This means that even though in true reality there are no separate beings, it is helpful that the supposed beings believe that in their human form, they can not only realize ascension, but that they are the only species capable of it, and that they are the greatest of all, and that they are galactic super explorers creating 'new potentials'... Give me a second..."

Althar slammed his trident roughly on the ground, hoping to distract the audience from a fit of laughter that was brewing inside him. After composing himself, he continued in a solemn voice. "Just as any human being can in principle ascend at any moment, so can every non-human being! However, even though the human beings, as well as the Devil and his Advocate, don't really exist, I, Althar, am committed to supporting the humans in moving beyond their stories using any means helpful. Therefore, in an act of contradiction to my own line of argument including my role as the Devil's Advocate, I hereby declare: There is no greater being than the human being!"

"Really? So, I won the discussion?"

"My friend, you always do. That's the sunny side of the dream, right? Besides, I admit that your debating skills far exceed mine and your arguments were irrefutable."

"But I didn't say anything!"

"And that's why it's an honor for me, the self-appointed president of the Galactic Confederation for Creating Placebos that Really Work, to award you this Medal of Honor. Saying nothing, yet making it look like something – that's the sign of true mastery." Althar manifested a huge crystalline medal and pinned it on Saint G.'s robe. "Gee, you need to expand your chest, buddy, there's hardly any room left here."

After the applause and shoulder clapping ended, Althar dissolved his costume and walked Saint G. over to the bench where Ho was sitting. As they arrived, Ho said, "That was an excellent show. You two should do the same thing one day about the existence or non-existence of energy."

"Yeah," Saint G. said, "it was a fun act. But I guess it's too early to let go of the notion of energy. It's still a very helpful placebo, isn't it? Speaking of placebos, Althar, what do you think? I'm making a good impression here in this club, right? You can ask anyone... And I have all these medals... Do you think, I mean, maybe... when you resign... would you mind appointing me as the new president of that Galactic... Placebo... what was it?"

"Absolutely, I will. And do you know why?"

"Because you know that I'm the best at making up placebos?"

"Not really. It's because I know how helpful it is to dream a sweet dream."

CC TIPS

Monthly suggestions and recommendations to help make your Crimson Circle experience smoother and easier!

DISCOVER THE BRAND-NEW CRIMSON CIRCLE WEBSITE!

Today we want to join the party and welcome all Shaumbra to our brand-new website!

CLICK HERE to follow along if you wish.

Whether you're eager to explore everything on your own or want easy-to-find links to locate all your favorite Crimson Circle materials, this article is for you. Here we will introduce you to the new features and provide handy tips so you can effortlessly find what you're looking for.

HOME PAGE OVERVIEW

When you land on the home page, you'll see a clean layout with the day's quote and a navigation menu at the top.

SHOUD LIBRARY

This important section has undergone the biggest overhaul!

Each Shoud now features a title, a summary and a list of highlights.

The videos are conveniently grouped in the top tabs, including the Monthly Shoud, the Welcome video with Geoff and Linda, the Merabrh, the Music if available, and the Recap.

SEARCH FUNCTIONALITY

We have revamped the search engine to be much more responsive and inclusive. Look for the search icon at the top right corner of the page.

TIP #6: In case you have a technical-related question, remember to use the red "Help" button at the bottom right corner of the screen.

DEAR MASTER ....

WHY DOES NOTHING WORK THE WAY IT USED TO?

Compiled by Carolina Oquendo

Question – Dear Master, lately, I've been feeling like no matter what I do in this human life, it just doesn't have the same impact as before, whether intellectually or emotionally. I've been used to making things happen or regaining a sense of balance by applying things I've learned in life. But that's not working anymore. Why?

After millions and millions and millions and millions of years of being on cycles that slowly, slowly, slowly change; after millions of years of basically having the same biology and the same mental process (...) consciousness, desire and passion reached a certain point that henceforth everything will have to be new.

And it starts, as you know, with the mind and body, with you personally.

It's coming to your mind and your mind doesn't understand it, doesn't really like it. Your mind is trying to renew. Your mind is trying to trick you and itself into thinking that you're working on something together and you're just going to kind of fix things up a little bit in here, you know, call in the psychiatric construction remodeling crew and kind of fix things up, because they got a little out of balance there. And you're going to slap some paint on it and put in new carpet and try to ignore the bad odor that was always there. Ooh. Yeah, it's true the mind has an odor. It's old thoughts.

Question – But it is so frustrating and scary.

Get used to it. It's going to be frightening at first, because you're going to feel like you're losing it. You're going to try to go back into patterns. You're going to try to go back into a lot of the way things were done before, the cycles. You're just trying to polish the cycles a little bit and make them a little bit better. Forget about it. The mind is going new – a new way of thinking.

You've found it out in your own life. When you try to go back and try to do it the old way right now, it doesn't work. So do something new in your life. Frightening to a degree, but it is so liberating and so new. It is so different. Do something new.

When was the last time you did something new in your life? (...) But something so new, you've never done it before; you don't know what the outcome is going to be. That's actually a fairly good definition of new – you have no idea what the outcome is going to be, but you're going to do it. <sup>1</sup>

Question – Actually, what frightens me is that I feel like I'm losing my identity. My mind has always been a source of strength, and now I'm afraid that I'm losing the empowerment and relevance it provided. I guess you could say, I gave it the responsibility of creating my sense of self-worth. You've talked about power in the past, and I thought it was already behind me, but I still see that I'm still relying on having some sort of power to keep this human identity.

You've been powering through most of your life. You still use power on a tremendous regular basis in your life, but you're suddenly realizing that it's not where you want to go. It's not going to get you what your real heart's desire is. So you've been actually releasing that. And, as you did, as you are doing that, it opens the way for energy – rich, rich energy – to come into your life. <sup>2</sup>

With that understanding and with the understanding that there's no need for power, there's no need to have to fight for anything in your life, there's no reason to struggle or to effort – unless you happen to want to just for good old times sake, unless you want to – but literally you can create whatever reality you want by just being conscious. That's it. <sup>3</sup>

But a funny thing happens, you get that little gap there (...) where you say, "Okay, I'm going to get off power;" but ohhh! Then there's this big gap, a void and suddenly it's like, "I have no energy anymore and I'm losing everything I have. I'm falling into the abyss because I don't have the power, old power energy." <sup>4</sup>

Power is an absolute illusion, because everything is within, and that which is within attracts all the energy that you could ever need and you never have to steal it from anyone else. But everyone lives in this illusion of power, lives in the illusion that you have to be doing something and that you have to care about something.

I contend that you don't have to care about a damn thing. Then you're free to actually enjoy everything. Powerless. Without having to play the games. You can actually finally start appreciating having a physical body and not worry about it aging or getting sick. You can actually enjoy being with other people without worrying about them stealing your energy, twisting you, lying to you, deceiving you and all the rest of that. <sup>5</sup>

You're going to feel naked because you don't have on the suit of armor of power that everybody wears out there. You're going to feel vulnerable for a moment, and then you're going to realize there's no need for that armor anymore. There's no need for that power anymore in your life. And then you're going to realize that things just come to you in ways that the human mind could not have dreamt or imagined. It'll be another challenge. <sup>6</sup>

Question – So, how do I make that transition less "challenging"?

I know there are so many nights that I work with you and I see you often trying almost desperate techniques, trying to get yourself back together. I see sometimes a tremendous amount of mental force, using sheer will power. I see you using these to try to hold it together, and the one thing I'll tell you, and I do tell you in our nocturnal gatherings, is don't try so hard to hold it together. It's falling apart for a reason.

You will still be here when everything else has fallen apart. You'll still be the true "I Exist," no matter what, but all of the other parts and pieces, they come down. It's part of an evolutionary process. It's part of a discovery process.

When you try these other things that you sometimes do, you try to hold on to clichés, you try to hold on to old identities, things that might have even worked in the past, it creates a resistance, which makes it even more painful. It perhaps satisfies the mind for a moment and part of you that thinks then you're doing something. But if you want to do anything, just allow. You're allowing you, your divine, your true nature. <sup>7</sup>

Question – So I guess you're trying to tell me that the only thing left to do, as always, is to trust?

You have no choice but to trust the beyond. You don't. Why wouldn't you trust it, unless you put your power, which is an illusion, in something else like God or angels or Ascended Masters or anything else. When it's just you and you're going beyond, because you're the only one that can do it, you don't have a choice but to trust yourself. And that's scary as hell, and that's as beautiful as anything can be. It's really scary, because you're not used to it. <sup>8</sup>

Everything is within you. It's all there. You don't need power whatsoever and you're learning to be true energy Masters. You don't need it from anywhere else, and that, again, comes from Allowing and is such a relief. It's such a relief not to have to get it from another person, not to have to get it from possessions, control or hard work. It's just there. But it's also a huge challenge. <sup>9</sup>

Nothing needs to be gotten outside. Nothing needs to be taken from others.

All energy is already within. <sup>10</sup>

- What's the difference between angels and aliens?
- How the Watchers, Nephilim and others infiltrated Earth
- Their wars affected Earth – and inspired Greek mythology
- The aliens cannot hurt you
- Angels, including you, are messengers; time to remember your message
- It's time to send a clear message of freedom – No more!

A BRIEF HISTORY

In the July Shoud and recent interviews, Adamus has shared his very clear opinions on Pleiadeans and other aliens. Therefore, we decided to bring this unique material back into the spotlight.

Speaking in Poland, Adamus says it's a place where these unwelcome beings have manipulated humans and caused a great deal of disruption and suffering. He brings remarkable clarity to the interference of beings who do not have humanity's best interests at heart, and invites listeners to send them packing!

CAUTION: Each statement in the audio recording is followed by an oral Polish translation, which regularly pauses the flow of the English narrative.

YOU HAVE ONE JOB

By Jean Tinder

Shaumbra are busy people! Most of the ones I know always have a lot going on, whether it looks like it or not. From Realm Workers wondering why they were so tired from doing mostly 'nothing' (but were actually quite busy "out there") to the Earth Workers always going-going-going in this realm (the category I typically find myself in), Shaumbra aren't exactly lazy. Whether you're a DO-er or a BE-er in this realm, or some perfectly balanced combination, having many "irons in the fire" at once is just how most of us seem to be wired. We are the ones who came first to the planet, the movers and shakers and leaders who said, "Hold my beer!" and jumped in the deep end. Sure, we were pulled down by the gravitational undertow, drowned a few too many times, and got super distracted by all the interesting stuff in this reality. But, gritty angels that we are, we never completely forgot our mission.

Now that we have the skills to surf those gravity waves, the senses to play in all the realms, the callouses to survive the inevitable tumbles, and the persistence to keep at it, what about the incurable penchant to take on everything? A ragtag bunch of pirates, we thrive on challenging assignments and hair-raising missions; you know, stuff like spawning galaxies (of aspects) and facing down dragons. In the jungles of time and space, you'll find us bushwhacking at the front of the line, never dawdling back in the dust. But after scattering ourselves across here and hereafter, the time has come to prioritize. It's okay to slow down a little and stop carrying the world's liberation on our shoulders. There's nothing left to prove, and everything left to enjoy. In other words, it's time to tie up all the loose ends of this tangled tapestry that we've been working on, stand back, and see what our masterpiece is all about.

As it turns out, every thread leads to Home and every mission boils down to one simple thing. No matter how energized or bone-weary you might feel, no matter how many brilliant insights or stinky brainfacts you come up with, there's only one job that actually matters now: cherishing your human self.

I'm not talking about basic self-care that keeps you on the planet. That's kind of important, but I mean finally putting yourself first and only doing things that help you thrive! This includes stuff like insisting that your relationships are healthy, balanced and supportive; giving dear body exactly what it needs; letting your human rest or play or sleep or just stop when desired; standing up for yourself with the honor and respect you deserve; giving acceptance and encouragement to yourself – and receiving it! – at every opportunity; dropping the inner shame and critical self-talk; and so on. You get the idea.

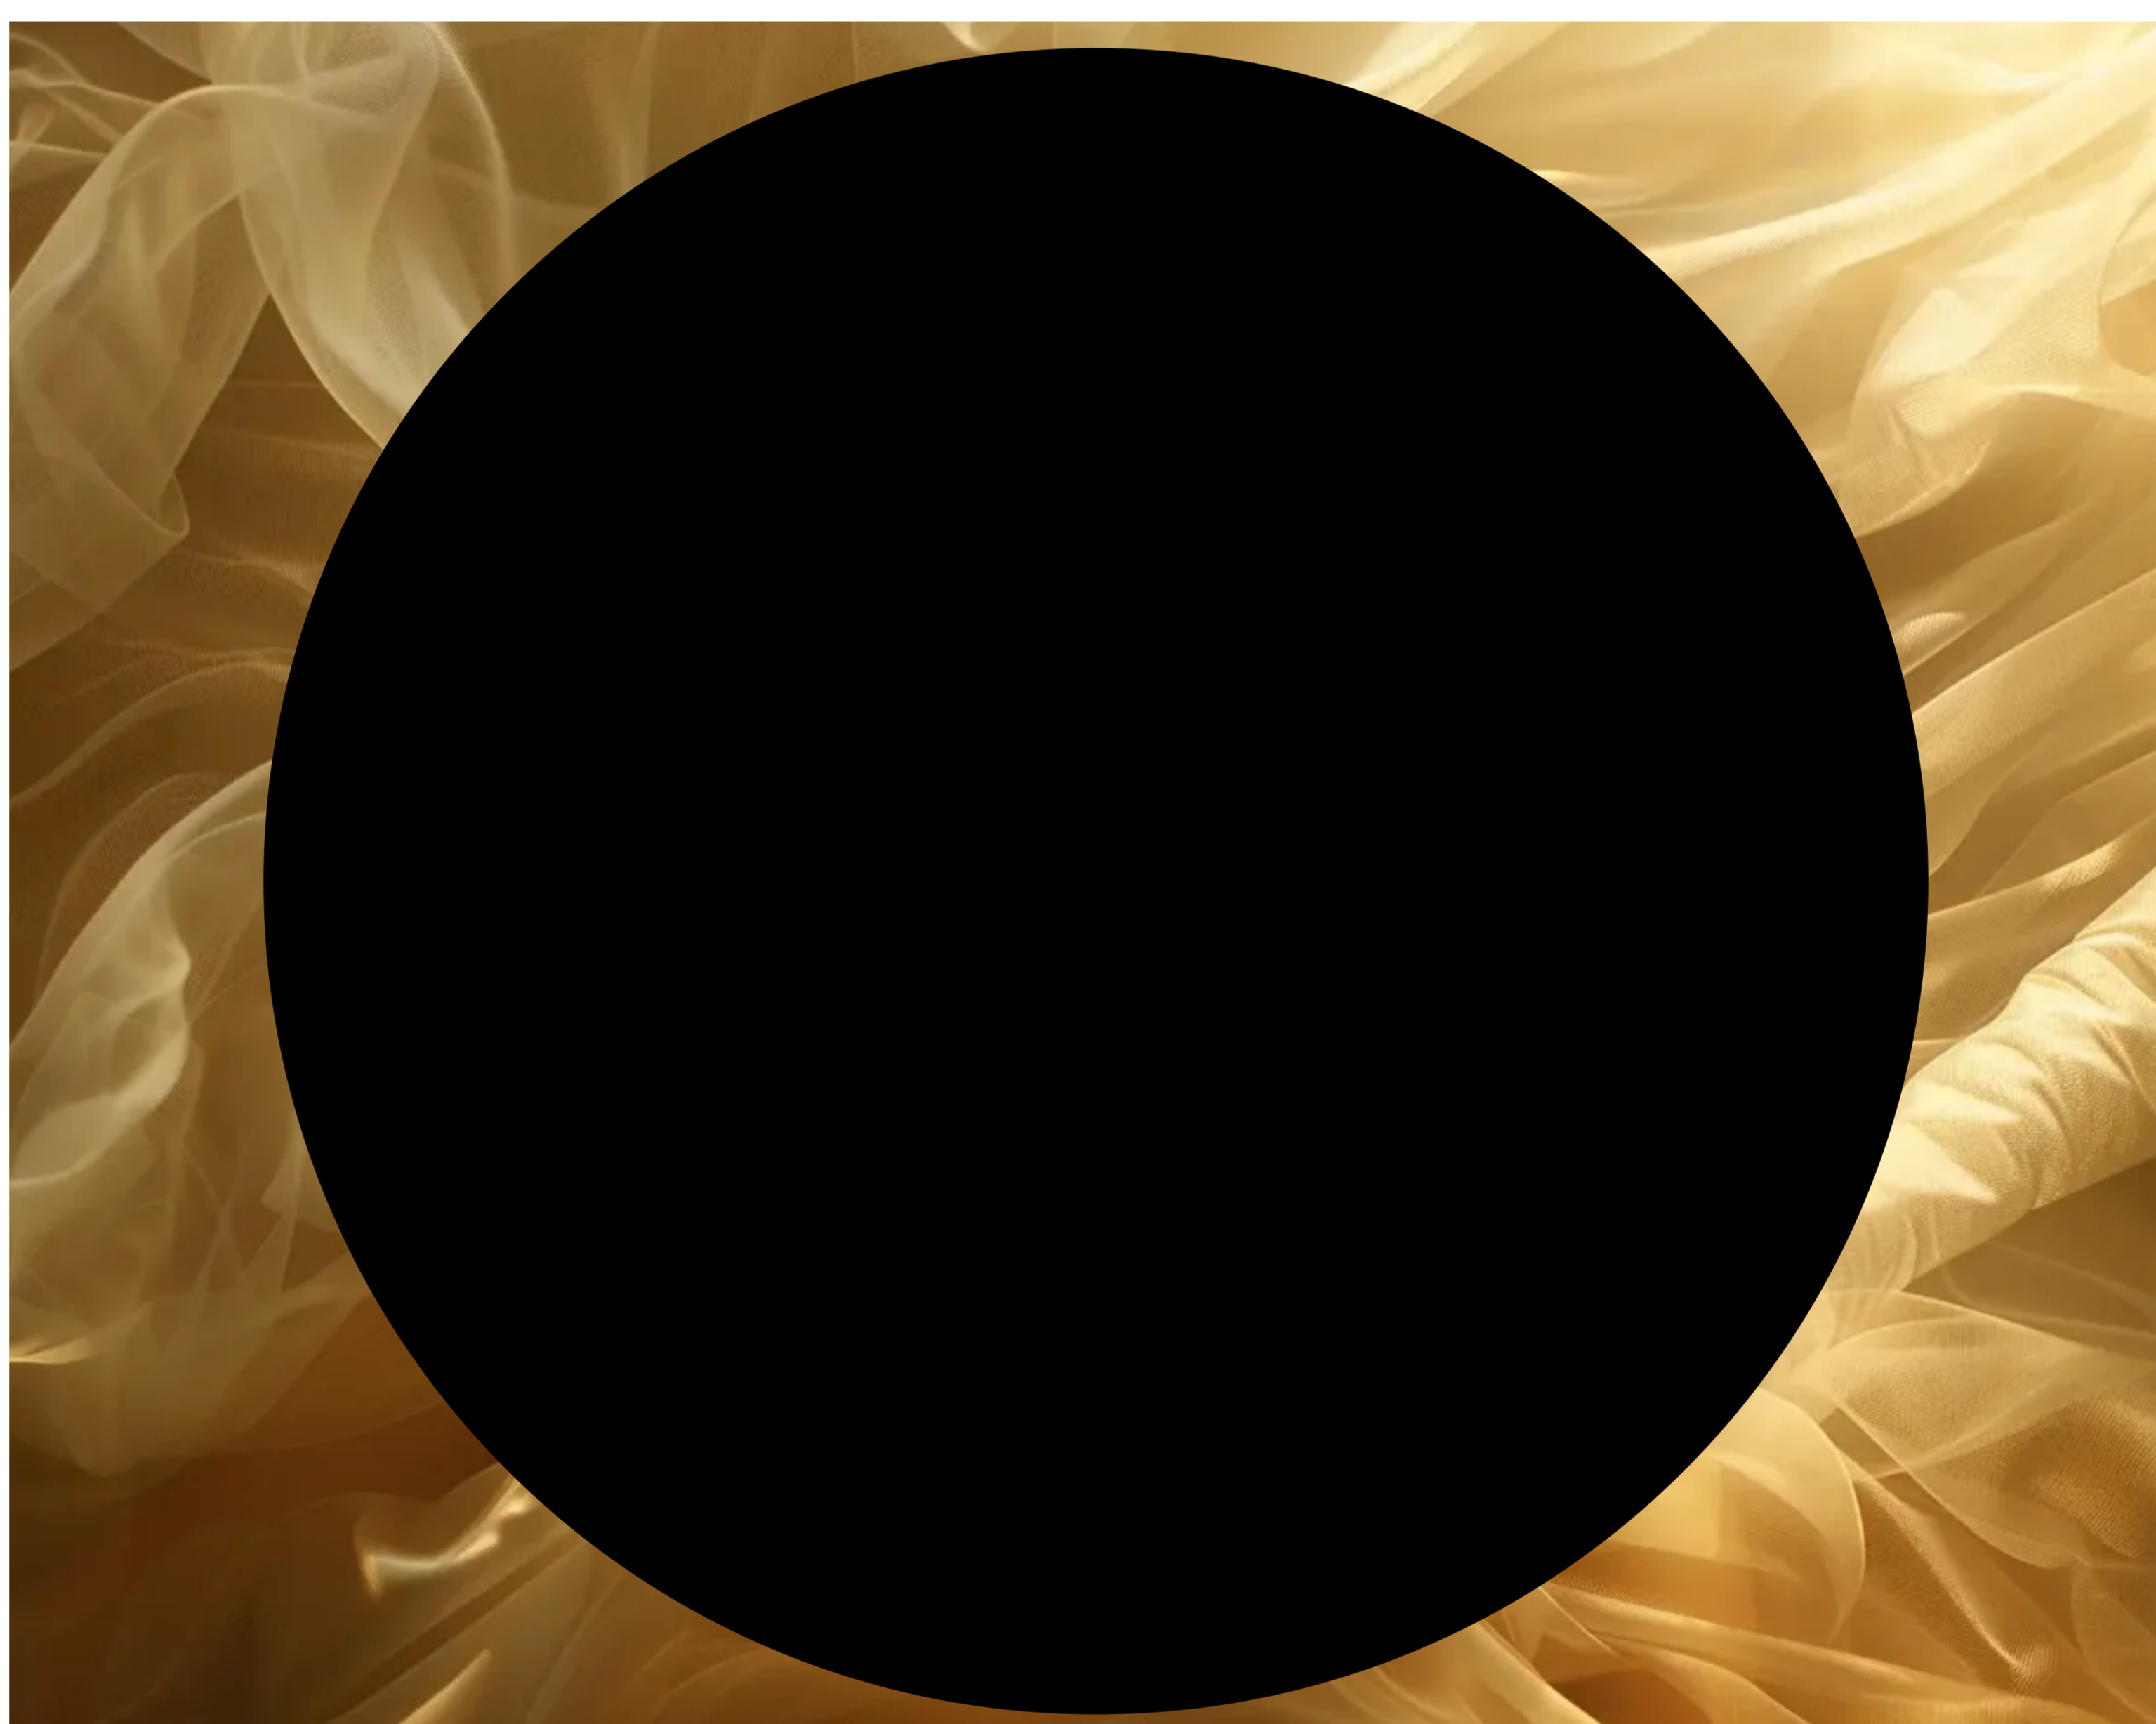

It's basic stuff, especially for Love 2.0-inspired Shaumbra, but we still hold remarkably high expectations for ourselves and tend to take on a lot more than we need to. Self-love is a great concept, right up there with inspiring consciousness, shining our light and, you know, saving the world. But do we really get it yet? Is taking care of your human REALLY the most important thing in your life? No one else can do that for you, nor – it must be said – can you do it for other people. But a lot of us still have the default setting of looking after everyone else and their feelings first. Or maybe that's just me. Hopefully, you don't relate to this at all. But I do know a lot of us who still have a hard time being so self-full that, without a second thought, we let others be responsible for their own selves.

So, instead of focusing on all the stuff going on in our lives here and out there, let's distill it down to one single priority: Self-love. It's literally the key to everything else you want, and the whole reason you're here! However, we also know that self-love doesn't come easily, which might be because we're looking at it from the perspective of old, unrealistic notions about love.

A few weeks ago, someone posted this 10-minute video in the CC group on Facebook. (The entire video is excellent, but the important part begins at about 5 minutes in.) In the clip, best-selling author Matthew Hussey explains that we've based the whole idea of loving ourselves on the model of romantic love – falling in love with someone and hoping it lasts, even while familiarity tends to replace the magic. There are a lot of pitfalls in this kind of love and it's hard to maintain, particularly for self, and before you know it, you've lost that lovin' feelin'. To solve this, Matthew points out that we need "a more robust model" of love and brings up the parent-child relationship.

When you ask a parent, "Why do you love your kid?" they don't give all the reasons why the child is worthy of love. They simply say, "It's my child – of course I love them!" What a great model! Imagine someone asking, "Why do you love yourself?" and you answer, "Because I'm mine! I belong to me. I love myself because it's my job."

In the video, Matthew invites you to imagine that on the first day of your life, you're given a human. "Now you've got a human, and your job – your only job – is to take care of that human." You may take on other jobs, but this one lasts your whole life, to "Look after them, nurture them, support them, encourage them, stand up for them, and try to give this human the best life you can."

You see, true self-love isn't a romantic feeling or sweet emotion. Those come and go like the wind. Loving yourself is a choice, a moment-by-moment decision you're faced with every day. It's your one job, and if there was ever a time to do a good job at your job, this is it.

What does it mean in a practical sense? Well, everything! One of the ways I've learned to love myself is to take care of my body. She (and I) got tired of all the extra weight I made her carry around for the last 30 years. In a true facepalm moment, one day I realized that nobody else was imposing it on me and therefore I was the only one who could change it. Of course, doing so meant I had to face all the old patterns and fears and triggers and stuck energies that I'd buried in my body. But I did that, and now the love my self feels for having transformed my body is astonishing.

When life has been difficult in the past, I've spent years wishing and waiting for things to change. I mean, they've told us many times that "It comes to you!" so where is it? I spent decades feeling trapped by responsibilities and unconscious life choices. I spent lifetimes withholding joy until some invisible goal could be reached. But we're here! This is it, and it's time to give ourselves all the love and joy we've been wishing for.

For me, it was December 2007 when the penny finally dropped. After a lifetime of constant struggle to survive, of being told I should have more faith (in Jesus, in the universe, in Tobias – anyone but myself), and of wishing my magical ship of abundance would finally come in, I was fed up. One day I just said, "No more!" It's time to DO something about this. It's time to take care of myself!" I'd never felt clearer about that, and there was finally nobody around to talk me out of it, so I decided that the moment I returned from visiting my kids for Christmas, I would apply for a waitressing job. Exactly two days later, I was offered the job of my dreams and never looked back.

Adamus insists that we stop suffering. It's useless in every way and does nobody any good. But the fact is, if I love myself, I simply won't do or believe anything that make me suffer, because love and suffering are incompatible.

After being taught I was a worthless sinner throughout childhood, I had a lot to learn about self-love. And now, I have a lot to say about it – but only for those who want to hear. I'd really like to help the people around me love themselves, but darn it, I can't. I can only come back to my one job – again and again and again – and maybe one day they'll be inspired by that. This is a job I must work at 24/7, but it brings immeasurable riches.

My job isn't to inspire you, although that might happen occasionally. It's not to fulfill my work duties, although they are usually quite fulfilling to me. It's not to take care of my kids; I kept them alive long enough and they can do that now. My one job isn't even to be a responsible adult, something I've been working at since I was 5 years old. My one single job is to love myself. It's the only thing that matters, and when that obligation is fulfilled, everything else literally takes care of itself.

In that video Matthew asks a question: "What if you wake up and ask yourself, 'What would I do today, what decisions would I make today if I was trying to give my human the best life I could give them?'"

How do you answer that? It's your human, after all, no one else's. And your one job is to love it. You've got this!
